INTRODUCTION

This reel guide accompanies the first annual shipment of the pre-1945 section of Research Publications' International Population Census Publications, part of a five year microfilm program based on the International Population Census Bibliography, Vol. 1-7 (Austin: Bureau of Business Research, 1965-1968), compiled by the Population Research Center (PRC), University of Texas at Austin.

A. The Guide as a Bibliography

The seven volume set of PRC's International Population Census Bibliography--Europe, Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Caribbean, North America, and Oceania, plus Supplement 1967--lists all the known published census reports for each country through 1967. The present Reel Guide has adopted the order and style of entries established by PRC, along with their numbering system--a two-part number which, when used with the country's name, uniquely identifies each title. The first part of each collection number is the year in which the census was taken, with a period separating it from the second part, a sequential number which gives each title its unique place in any given country's listing of census publications. For example, the citation "Italy 1858.3" belongs solely to the third title listed under the 1858 census for Italy.

Entries in the PRC Supplement were unnumbered, however, and there was an occasional title added here and there from our own bibliographic research, including a five volume set for Italy 1871, necessitating some system for incorporating those titles into the body of the Reel Guide (and hence into the body of the microfilm collection). An interfile numbering system was developed which was flexible enough to be applied to any situation which might arise--whether it was the addition of titles from the Supplement or the addition of entirely new titles, whether these classes of titles required being interfiled into the existing numbering scheme or simply being added to the end of the existing sequence.

Essentially, any title without a pre-assigned collection number was given a compatible number in square brackets, signifying the title's status as an addition from the Supplement or some other source. When the title being added most logically fell between two items already assigned their place in the sequence (as with the addition of Volume IV, 2a Parte, Tomo II of Brazil's 1920 census, which logically required listing between 1920.10 and 1920.11) the title was given an interfile number--the number used by the preceding title placed in square brackets with the addition of a sub-sequential number identifying the title's interfile position. (The number assigned to Volume IV, 2a Parte, Tomo II from the 1920 census of Brazil was [1920.10-1].) In the case of an added title which did not require being interfiled into the existing numbering scheme, a number was assigned which placed the title at the end of the sequential listing for that particular census year, as with Italy [1911.3] through [1911.8].

These volumes have collection numbers which extend the sequence for Italy 1911; square brackets signal their status as additions to the Bibliography and to the Reel Guide.

A third class of square-bracketed additions consists of any title originally described in the Bibliography under one collection number which was subsequently discovered to be more than one bibliographic unit. In such cases a note was made across from the single collection number that the title had been expanded and renumbered with an interfile sequence. An example would be Belgium 1930.2, which was discovered to consist of 11 volumes. These were given the interfile sequence [1930.2-1] through [1930.2-11].

The bibliographic descriptions in the PRC Bibliography, which have been carried over into our Bibliography/Reel Guide are in modified catalog form, i.e., each description has been taken from the book itself and the corporate main entry for each volume has been transcribed from its title page--no attempt has been made to regularize these main entries. However, the catalog cards which accompany the collection will of course have Library of Congress compatible main entries.

B. The Guide as a Reel Index

By interfiling the sequence of microfilm reels with the bibliographic listings, the Reel Guide also serves as a reel index to the microfilm collection. Each country has its own reel sequence and any item can be located on film by noting the country, reel number and collection number from the Guide. For example, Finland 1880.3, listed as Finlands folkmängd den 31 December 1880. Senare häftet, can be found on Reel 1, which contains all of Finland's census publications from 1865.1 through 1890.2.

Each reel begins and ends with an eye-readable title block giving full information on the contents of the reel, including the name of the project, the country, census years and collection numbers encompassed, as well as the number of the reel. There is also a target which appears before each volume with the name of the country and the collection number. Some countries with only a few small census publications, e.g., Barbados and Trinidad and Tobago in Shipment 1, have been combined and can be found on the same reel. In such cases, there is special targeting information which clearly separates one country from another and there are corresponding notes in the Guide signalling the fact that publications for several countries appear on the reel, so that there should be no retrieval difficulties.

C. Acknowledgements

A continuing note of thanks is due Doreen Goyer, librarian at the Population Research Center, University of Texas at Austin. Doreen has been most generous in loaning publications for filming, but especially so in offering her bibliographic assistance at critical points. We also wish to thank the Bureau of the Census Library and the Economic Section at the New York Public Library for making available their holdings to us.
